FROZEN: KIDS MUSICAL
ALL-DAY THEATRE CAMP

Ages 8-13

Nurturing our childhood imagination through theatre, young artists will create and perform FROZEN, Kids! in 1 week. In this technological age, it is easy to become disconnected from others. Musicals are about making connections through stories. Children will explore the magical world of theatre through dancing, singing, and acting. Due to the work/rehearsals needed for a musical this is a 'double' camp. We will use the morning and afternoon sessions for auditions, rehearsals, and technical support. Come shine in the spotlight. There will be a performance for the public at the end of the week that incorporates all that was shared throughout the week. A few of this camp's benefits are to challenge the individual artist to explore their fullest potential, build confidence in group projects and getting their voice heard, develop the young artist's discipline in theatre, discover individual contributions as a necessary part of the whole project, and create friendships that last a lifetime.

Zac J. Campbell is proud to be in his 9th year at JP2 as Director of Theatre Arts. He teaches an active theatre curriculum to include: Beginning/Intermediate Theatre, Honors Acting, and Stage Craft. Having earned his M.F.A. in Acting, with a specialty in movement, from UNCG, he is well versed in voice, movement, stage combat, and acting for the camera. Mr. Campbell was the co-founding director of Footlight Players, a children's summer theatre camp, at Indiana University of PA, a program that continues to thrive to this day. In addition he has developed an active program for children at JP2 that focuses on the success of young artists through expression and collaboration.
